A SPIRIT OF DEFIANCE

Report Marshal Badoglio Is Undertaking to Organize
An Army

(Note: Italy is prepared to fight Great Britain and the whole world to protect her aims in Ethiopia, but, if forced to do it, would bring upon herself "inevitable collapse," says H. R. Knickerbocker, Pulitzer prize winning correspondent for International News Service, in the following article. It is the second of a series of six entitled "Europe Skirts the Pit," outlining the factors behind the threat of war the Continent faces this Summer.)

LONDON, May 5—(INS)—Italy is prepared to fight. She is willing to fight Great Britain if necessary, the world too, if it comes to that. She is exalted, intoxicated perhaps, but whatever one calls it she is ready to go to war if Britain or the League or anyone else does anything effective to check her victory in Abyssinia or to take the fruits of that victory from her.

Will it come to war?

"We will lose every vessel in our navy. We will lose the last rowboat and not a funnel will remain above water. But before we get through with the British we will deal their navy a blow they will remember for twenty years. And we will go down gloriously."

Thus spoke an Italian admiral when I was in Rome on my way out of Abyssinia. Today, with the flight of the Emperor and the capture of Addis Ababa, and the occupation of the shores of Lake Tana by Blackshirts, that spirit of defiance in Italy is stronger than ever.

Now the collapse of Abyssinian resistance is equally the collapse of the League policy of sanctions. But when the League steps out of the contest it removes the League buffer between Britain and Italy and leaves these two nations frankly arrayed against each other on the imperial question, vital for both.

At this tense moment the British press reports Marshal Badoglio is undertaking to arm and organize 200,000 Abyssinians immediately as the nucleus of a great Black Army. What that could mean for Britain may be judged in the light of a report circulating in British officialdom that Marshal Badoglio considers it eventually necessary to connect Italian Libya with Abyssinia by a corridor through the British Sudan. This would enable the Italians to maintain communications in their new empire without using the vulnerable Suez Canal.

At the same time a report comes that Italy has sent another 15,000 troops to Libya. Taken all in all, Italy's triumph has created more disquiet in London than anywhere save perhaps in Addis Ababa, and the British Lion fully shares the discomfiture of the Lion of Judah.

The British Lion put his majestic nose into Italian affairs last autumn. Ever since, periodically, persistently, Italy has slapped the Britanic proboscis until it has become redder than ever since 1776. The effect upon Britain has been painful. The effort upon Italy has been unparalleled. Nothing like it ever happened in modern Italian history so to elevate the national spirit, to unify it, to stimulate it to frenzies of patriotic enthusiasm.

Britain did more to unify Italy in three months than the Fascists had been able to do in fourteen years. Up until the British led the imposition of sanctions upon Italy there may have remained twenty per cent of Italians who opposed Mussolini in their hearts, and certainly fifty per cent of them were against war in Abyssinia.

The war was unpopular. But from the moment of British intervention the entire Italian nation rallied to Mussolini as one man. Instead of Italy against Abyssinia, the war became Italy against Britain. Immediately the war became insanely popular.

Service Clubs Present
Flag To Boy Scout Troop

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 5—Representatives of Bristol's two service clubs presented a flag to the Cornwells Heights Boy Scout troop in the Methodist Church here last evening. The gift was the award made to the troop for having 100 per cent attendance at the recent Boy Scout rally conducted in Bristol.

Jesse C. Everitt represented the Rotary Club, and I. Johnston Hetherington was the Exchange Club representative. This award is made each year by the service clubs to the troop having the largest percentage of attendance at the affair.

Mr. Hetherington also made a gift to the troop, giving the Scouts two sets of signal flags.

HISTORY-MAKING FLIGHT

(Note: This is the first of a series of three articles on the world's largest dirigible "The Hindenburg," scheduled to take off May 6th on its initial flight to the United States—INS.)

By James L. Kilgallen
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, May 5—(INS)—Soon "The Hindenburg," Germany's new giant air liner, will be coming over the Zeppelin, commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, and carrying fifty passengers and a crew of forty-three, will soar from her home port at Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., on what is expected to be a history-making flight because it will mark the establishment of a dirigible air line connecting Europe and America.

In all probability the Hindenburg will take off from Frankfurt on May 6 and arrive in Lakehurst three days later.

It will be a thrilling spectacle for New York's 7,000,000 people when the blunt nose of the powerful ship pushes through the heavens from the East and zooms over the towering skyscrapers of the city enroute to the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst.

There, everything will be in readiness to receive the ship. Already there is an air of expectancy at Lakehurst. Dr. Eckener has come across before with big zeppelins. They know him at Lakehurst. They recall the time he brought over the ZR-3, the big cigar-shaped Zeppelin with the silver sides, and later the globe-circling Graf Zeppelin.

Eckener is popular in Lakehurst, although he has been running into a little trouble with Nazi officials in Germany over political matters. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the Lakehurst Naval Station has assigned all of his officer personnel to special duties while the Hindenburg is in port.

It is the plan of Dr. Eckener and the operators of the Hindenburg to have the ship make ten round trips between Europe and the United States this summer—between May 6 and October 14.

Dr. Eckener intends to prove the feasibility of Zeppelins for regular trans-Atlantic travel. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey on each visit of the ship to Lakehurst will supply 15,000 gallons of Diesel engine fuel and approximately 1,500,000 cubic feet of hydrogen to replenish the lifting gas which will be valued out of the dirigible's huge cells as it is maneuvered across the ocean and to its landing.

The hydrogen will be manufactured under a special contract with the zeppelin operators at the Standard Oil's Bayway refinery and will be shipped to Lakehurst in a train of specially constructed tank cars.

Passenger and freight arrangements are being handled by the Hamburg American Line—North German Lloyd, and American Airlines will fly passengers between Lakehurst and New York.

The Hindenburg will carry mail and freight, in addition to passengers. One-way passenger fare will be $400, except for the initial trip, the price for which is $100 higher.

PLANNED LOAFING

(New York American, May 4, 1936)

By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

What this country needs, and has needed for three years, are WORKINGMEN in executive positions in Washington. There are too many mortar-boards and not enough overalls in the Cabinet, the Kitchen Cabinet and the Frankfurter Annex.

"We are asked to subject ourselves and our workers and our processes to the ideas of men who have never produced anything and who cannot point to a single enterprise under their control competently and productively engaged," said Colby M. Chester, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, in a radio address lately.

This protest against the domination of the pedant over the men who CREATE THE WEALTH OF THE NATION BY HARD WORK AND AT ENORMOUS RISKS is from the standpoint of the manufacturer.

But it could come with equal force from ANY PERSON who labors, creates or, in a word, WORKS FOR A LIVING.

As Mr. Chester says, those in the Administration who spend their days and nights trying to destroy our fundamental institutional principles are not fit to run "a single enterprise"—NOT EVEN THEORETICALLY.

Placed in a position of managing the most colossal enterprise of all time—the United States of America—they have in less than four years botched and bungled it so completely that they can hardly find anything more to tax to cover over the pit of debt and deficit that we are all peering into.

Yet these men aim to run all the business enterprises of the country and regulate the lives of every American from the cradle to the grave!

The greatest business in the world—the business of Uncle Sam, YOUR business—has gone to pot in the meddling hands of sterile and arid professors and economic rigmaroles who have never taken a single lesson in the realistic game of PRACTICAL LIFE!

The whole philosophy of this Administration is founded on airy-fairy theories that would be grotesque even in Utopia.

The latest vagary of this crackpot ideology is reported by Senator Vandenberg, who says that a New York bank WAS PAID $705,488 BY THE AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ADMINISTRATION to be turned over to a Puerto Rican sugar company for NOT producing sugar.

On the same basis most of the members of President Roosevelt's Cabinet should receive immense bonuses for DOING NOTHING or WORSE than nothing, generally the latter.

Secretary Mongenthou ought to get a fat bonus for in-

NURSES, DRS., SPEAK

DOYLESTOWN, May 5—The Bucks County Public Health Association and Public Health Nurses, meeting in Doylestown at the end of the week, named Mrs. John B. Chambers, Newtown, president, she succeeding Miss Laura C. Haines, Doylestown, who has served as such for the past 10 years.

In appreciation of the services rendered in the interest of public health, Miss Haines, who declined re-election, was presented with a copy of the very excellent book, "Behind the Doctor," Miss Haines presided at the meeting at the Doylestown Inn.

Dr. J. Fred Wagner, Bristol, was elected vice-president of the association, and Mrs. William Fabian, Newtown, secretary.

At the afternoon session, Miss Virginia Ellman, director of nurses, Southeastern chapter of the American Red Cross, said that it was her opinion that not only the nursing group and the public health workers, but communities as a whole, in the past year or more, have been "thrown into

Morrisville Rotarians
Buy 35 Pounds of Shad

MORRISVILLE, May 5—Service, the motto of Rotary, was exemplified by the local club a few nights ago when Manohar R. Reiter, president of the Morrisville club, sold to its members 35 pounds of shad.

The Morrisville club meets regularly at the Lincoln Restaurant here but it had been decided to hold the last meeting in the Methodist Sunday School, where the women of the church served the dinner. John Husher, proprietor of the Lincoln Restaurant, was not informed of the change in meeting place and anxious to give the Rotarians a good dinner purchased 35 pounds of fine shad. On the meeting day when informed of the change, the restaurant proprietor asked "What will I do with the shad?" He did not have to wonder long because President Reiter, after the meeting in the church, asked the members if they wished to purchase the shad for the next day's dinner and in a few minutes the entire 35 pounds was disposed of.

Amazing Story to Judge
In County Court

AN IMPORTED WORKER

DOYLESTOWN, May 5—Victor R. Bender, 19, of Philadelphia, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Hiram H. Keller to charges of stealing milk cans and various other articles from farms and buildings in Bucks, Berks, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties.

Bender served 19 months in Huntington Reformatory for similar charges and was recently turned over to Bucks county authorities.

Bender told Judge Keller that he could go straight if placed on parole. Michael Plugas, of Philadelphia, who accompanied Bender on the escapades, served a prison term in Montgomery county. In Philadelphia, a warrant for Bender's arrest has been withdrawn, counsel informed the Court.

Judge Keller released Bender on probation. Albert Tucker, Jr., 23, of Philadelphia, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller. Patrolman Chulick, of Doylestown, described Tucker as "totally drunk" when he saw him after a serious accident on the Bethlehem pike near Sellersville on April 19. Two persons were injured in the accident.

Tucker, who said he worked for the WPA, said that he started out for a theatre in Ogontz, found it too late, visited a tap room, drank 5 beers, 5 whiskies and then started out for a joyride to Bucks county.

Tucker admitted that he is one of the crew that comes up to Bucks county and works on roads. He said he was once arrested for highway robbery in Montgomery county and was placed on parole.

"Your case is very aggravated," Judge Keller said to Tucker. "There must be something about you that is weak."

"The sentence is that you serve six months to three years in the Bucks County Prison."

Master's reports were filed in the Court of Common Pleas in the divorce actions of Edmund E. Sutterly, of Morrisville, against Helen Gould Sutterly, of Woodside, Long Island, and William Lambert, of Newtown, against Billie May Lambert, of New Hope.

In the Court of Common Pleas a petition of Vera Clay for a writ of habeas corpus for the body of her minor child, Helen Marie Clay, 12, of Richlandtown, was filed.

A petition for the appointment of a master in the divorce case of Mabel I. Rulon against Mumford M. Rulon was filed.

In the Orphans' Court of Bucks County in the estate of Henry C. Mercer regarding the "Chinese Expedition Fund," separate answers of Henry D. Paxson, Jr., and B. F. Packenthal, Jr., to the petition to discharge trustees and new matter, were filed.

PRIMARY VOTE WORRIES DEMOCRATS
AS THEY REALIZE 50,000 VOTED FOR
BRECKINRIDGE, A COMPARATIVE UNKNOWN

(Special to Courier)

HARRISBURG, May 5—Fifty thousand Democrats who voted in last week's primaries don't like President Roosevelt. Rather than vote in favor of his re-nomination they cast their ballots in favor of Col. Henry E. Breckinridge, a comparative unknown, whose name appeared on the ticket with that of Roosevelt. And this, despite the announced intention of the Democratic bosses to give Roosevelt a million votes in the State, which they failed to do by a margin of 250,000. Nobody worked for Breckinridge, but the whole Earle Administration was put in behind Roosevelt. Capitol Hill employees being given as much as a week's leave of absence with pay to electioneer in the President's behalf.

Democratic bosses fear that the 50,000 anti-Roosevelt votes at the primaries may be supplemented by at least another 50,000 old-line Jeffersonian Democrats in November who can't stand the New Deal.

Italians Enter Addis Ababa

London, May 5—Italian troops occupied Addis Ababa this afternoon, Sir Sidney Barton, British minister, radioed today in a terse message.

Engert Reported Safe

London, May 5—A gallant little band of Americans, headed by Cornelius Van H. Engert, Minister to Ethiopia, who had held the American legation in Addis Ababa for three days during repeated attacks by rioting Ethiopians, were "safely evacuated" today. This first message was reported to the Foreign Office by Sir Sidney Barton, British Minister, without further details, but it was presumed the Americans were taken to the well protected British Legation, where most of the Europeans in Addis Ababa were taken when the anarchy first broke out Saturday following the flight of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Assembly Settles To Work

Harrisburg, May 5—Pennsylvania's General Assembly, called into the 19th special session in its history, today settled down to work on an administration emergency legislative program embodying appropriations totaling more than $80,000,000. Formal opening ceremonies completed, both branches of the State Legislature were ready to take up Governor George H. Earle's program of 17 subjects, a program described by the first executive as necessary and vital to the welfare of the people of the state.

Calling for a non-partisan session that will advance the emergency measure, the Governor, in his message to the combined houses, asserted: "There is no reason why we should not reach a speedy agreement. I beg of you to make this session short. We must not delay."

The Governor's audience, in addition to hosts of speakers, consisted of an administration-controlled House of Representatives, and a Republican-dominated Senate.

Representative Roy E. Furman, Green County Democrat, was selected as Speaker of the House, to succeed the late Wilson G. Sarig. Furman received 115 votes to 86 accorded Representative Morton Witkin, Philadelphia Republican. The voting was on a straight party line.

Standing by his original legislative program, Governor Earle asked for an appropriation of $70,991,000 to carry unemployment through next January.

Bristol's Police Chief Designated to Act as Liaison
Official

Bristol has entered the National Traffic Safety Contest for 1936, according to an announcement made today by Linford J. Jones, chief of police, who received confirmation of the borough's enrollment from the National Safety Council in Chicago, Ill.

Bristol participated in the 1935 contest, the results of which will be announced at a later date. The report for this contest is now being prepared.

The entry form was signed by Burgess Clifford L. Anderson, who designated Linford J. Jones, chief of police, to handle all local details and to act as liaison between Bristol and the national contest committee in Chicago.

More than 800 cities and 33 states took part in the 1935 contest, and with the increasing interest being shown in safety in all parts of the country today, even a larger number of states and municipalities are expected to enroll in the 1936 contest. The cities are divided into six population groups and Bristol is in group six, having 10,000 to 12,000 population. A handsome bronze plaque is awarded to the winner in each division; certificates will be given to the second and third place winners in each group.

Added impetus is given to the contest this year due to the launching of the National Safety Council's five year campaign to slash traffic accident fatalities 25 per cent, by 1941 and save 38,000 lives, this drive which started January 1st, received the indorsement of the governors of virtually all states, and the mayors and safety directors of nearly 1,000 municipalities. The co-operation of the contest cities is needed particularly to insure the success of this mammoth life saving program.

The local campaign will follow closely the tried and tested methods of traffic accident prevention which has proved successful in many cities

Jeanne Riebel, Chalfont,
Wins County Spelling Bee

DOYLESTOWN, May 5—A Chalfont miss, Jeanne Riebel, was declared winner of the annual Bucks County spelling contest, which was conducted Friday in the high school auditorium here. Miss Riebel, who is a pupil of Charles E. Poole, received the prize of $3 after standing up under a barrage of 466 words.

The runner-up, Dorothy Clymer, 501 West Broad street, Quakertown, lost out to the winner on the word centennial but the North Penn lass spelled it c-e-n-t-e-n-a-l-a-l. A student of Miss Z. Plattoff, she received $2 for finishing second.

A Perkusie student, John E. Horn, received $1 for finishing third when he defaulted on florist spelling "flower-ist."

The prizes were made possible by County Superintendent Hoffman. Assistant Superintendents Albert C. Rutter and Charles H. Boehm attended the event. Robert Reinhart and Charles Trumbauer, both of Quakertown, and W. Lester Trauch, served as judges.

Twenty-eight students, representing 25 out of 55 school districts, began the contest.

Hugh Boyd, Doylestown school, did valiantly until he flied with "bequeath," adding an "e" to the final letter and went down in the 26th round.

The names of the pupils and the order in which they fell by the wayside follow:

Elsie Pittner, Warrington school; Robert Unangst, Durham school; Walter Sahr, Morrisville school; Jean Rixrode, West Rockhill school; Harriet Hennigh, Sellersville school; Pauline Painter, East Rockhill school; William R. Andres, Haycock school; Herbert Ott, Doylestown school; Kenneth W. Johnson, Solebury school; Margaret LaBain, Washington Crossing school; Earl Lawrence Rainsner, Bridgeton school; Esther Hockman, New Britain school; Robert Rochelle, Upper Southampton, and Clarke Applegate, Riegelsville school.

Frank Stoudt, Tinicum school; Wilmer W. Rush, Bedminster school; Thomas Orr, New Britain borough school; Miriam Schaffer, Dublin school; Helen N. Heston, Newtown township; Helen Wolfer, Springfield school; Margaret Courtwright, Wrightstown school; Doris Long, Blooming Glen school; and William Harner, Richland school.

ANALYSIS AND APPRECIATION

With this, that and the other thing given recognition by a week specially designated, or dedicated to it, we feel that at least a few paragraphs can be offered at least once in a great many years, concerning the home town newspapers.

Call it Newspaper Appreciation Week, if you will, or whatever, but stop to think what the home town paper means to you and to your community.

Though the newspaper's story is generally the same, each publication has its individual style, trend and characteristic make-up.

Consider this paper. Week after week, year after year it comes to the home as a daily messenger, bringing you news of the town, the personal items, church, school, fraternal, political and industrial activities; telling you of happy weddings, babies born, Grim Reaper's call—and many other features.

Analyze your home town paper sometime, don't "just read it."

The first page is the "front window," generally well dressed, and with a variety of attractions.

Then there is the editorial page with its separate and distinct features. The home notes page has its columns of personal paragraphs, and daily correspondents from many communities send letters for your perusal.

The merchants themselves have their various departments in which, day after day, they make contact with the reading public. This is an important feature of any newspaper, and of inestimable value to the merchant, the reader the paper. There is a lot of personality in it, for each advertisement is an expression of the man or business it represents.

The classified page is likewise a feature, far more than advertising alone. There can be read romance, and tragedy, happiness and sorrow, failure and success, fortune, progress—in fact it is a barometer of the times.

And so we could go on! But we asked you to make the analysis, and with that thought still in mind, will "sign off."

BASEBALL STILL POPULAR

Popular interest in boxing and other sports may be shrinking, but this is something that can not be said of baseball.

The present big league season is only a few weeks old but the games are drawing unusually large crowds. This is the case in virtually all of the cities where the games are played.

This situation is encouraging from more than one standpoint. It means not only that the public continues to be interested in the great American pastime. At the same time it is a striking illustration that business recovery is under way. Large paid admissions mean that the people—the rank and file—have money and that this money is being paid out and put into circulation instead of being hoarded. The big attendance figures also mean that the depression's effects upon the minds of the people are lightening. When people show an inclination to play and be amused, their worries are not heavy.

In addition to those watching the game from grandstand and bleachers, there are millions watching it from public scoreboards, and by means of the radio.

America still is baseball-conscious.

A Weekly Commentary on Things of Local Interest which will appear each Tuesday in this column.

Although local history has been taught in the Bristol public schools for a quarter of a century, the county school officials are just awakening to the importance of such an innovation. A committee is now at work preparing a history of Bucks County to be taught in the seventh and eighth grades.

Of course, Bristol will figure prominently in the new work. The first ferry was established in Bristol in 1682. It was here the first county seat was established in 1705. The first court house was erected on Cedar street. The first railroad and the first canal had their terminuses at Bristol. The first post office in the county was located here. Bristol was the first chartered market town and the first incorporated borough in Bucks County.

The introduction of a history of Bucks County into the schools will be a very timely innovation. Everyone will admit, that in a well rounded education, every student should know something about the history of the town and county in which he lives.

Anyone who has a desire to trace the real facts of history, soon finds that many statements are distorted and inaccurate and tradition is seldom true.

I have before me at this time, a history of the Bloomsdale Ferry written by Capt. Burnett Landreth, over 40 years ago. In it he says: "In 1804 on the 13th of July, Colonel Aaron Burr, who had killed Colonel Hamilton, on the 11th, then on his flight southward, crossed at Bloomsdale Ferry, and proceeded out the Bloomsdale road westward."

Not long ago I met a gentleman from Merchantville, N. J., who had written a history of the ancient ferries which plied between New Jersey and Pennsylvania. I told him I had recently found an old history of the Bloomsdale Ferry, and casually remarked about Burr having crossed the ferry following his duel with Hamilton. He replied that he had made a careful investigation of Colonel Burr's whereabouts, following his duel with Hamilton, and that at no time was Burr in this vicinity. Thus another interesting tradition was shattered.

In "Girard's Talk of the Day" published daily in a Philadelphia newspaper, an article appeared recently, which told of certain pieces of antique furniture, in possession of various residents of New Jersey. I mentioned the article to a friend and was told that Horace Burton, Edgely, had a chair that belonged to William Penn.

In the early part of 1700, Thomas Marriott moved over from Burlington and settled in Bristol. The Marriotts were among the early landowners in New Jersey. Thomas Marriott built a home in 1730 on the west side of Radcliffe street, between Mulberry and Walnut streets. It was the first home built on the street.

In conversation with Miss Mary Rodgers, librarian at the Bristol Library, I found that she was a direct descendant of this Thomas Marriott, through the marriage of the Rodman and Paxon families, and that she had in her possession a "low-boy" which had been a part of the furniture in the home of this Thomas Marriott. It would be interesting to learn more about pieces of antique furniture, now in possession of Bristol families. If those having such pieces of furniture in their homes, will kindly notify the editor of the Courier, I shall be glad to mention in this column, the articles and the history associated therewith.

A serious situation has arisen today, through the necessity of elderly persons to furnish evidence of age, in the matter of pensions, etc. Today the State requires the registration of births, but before this law was enacted, the only record obtainable, was a certificate from the doctor, or a baptismal certificate from the minister who officiated.

Unfortunately, the ministers of a few generations ago, did not realize the importance attached to their records, and were careless and indifferent as to their preservation. Today inquiries are being constantly made to the pastors of the various churches for a record of baptism, by old people who have no other recourse in order to establish their ages.

A few weeks ago a young man from out of town called on me and said he was seeking information about his mother's birth. I remember his grandfather, but the baptismal records of the church in which his mother was christened were lost, and in consequence, there was no way to obtain a certification of his mother's birth.

A few days ago, a young man with whom I was well acquainted asked me if the records of a certain church had been preserved as he wanted to obtain a certification of his father's birth. His father and I are about the same age, and grew up in the same neighborhood, but because the church records had been lost, I could give no help. It is most unfortunate that these church records have not been preserved, as their loss threatens to become a serious misfortune to many elderly persons in the next few years.

Italy Prepared To Fight The World To Protect Her Aims

Every other day in Rome, as the bulletins of fresh Italian advances in Abyssinia reach the capital, crowds swarm down the streets where crowds have swarmed two thousand years, and cheer and sing. I asked an Italian friend, "Aren't they a little bit ashamed to celebrate so proudly a victory over the poor old Abyssinians who haven't got anything but popguns against your airplanes and tanks and cannon?"

"Don't be silly," the Italian replied. "They aren't celebrating victory over the Abyssinians. They are yelling because we gave the old British Lion another jab in the ribs."

Italian heads are high. They are so high they occasionally reach the clouds. The man in the Italian street believes today that Italy could whip Great Britain. He believes the British Empire is breaking up. He thinks the British are fat, surfeited, and on their way to degeneracy. He considers that Britain has called upon the League to stop Mussolini because Britain is afraid of Mussolini's Italy.

The man in the Roman street regards Fascist Italy as the natural heir of the British Empire. He stares at the maps of Rome which Mussolini has erected in marble, showing the Roman Empire from its infant beginning to the moment when it embraced all of known Europe and, he remarks, all of England. "Now is the time to get all that back," thinks Giuseppe.

The man in the Roman Library, the intelligent Italian, knows this is nonsense. But his logical mind is revolted at the British position. Here, he cites, is Great Britain, greatly striving for the ideal of saving Abyssinia from Italy. This same Great Britain, he notes, had in the fifty years before the war saved, snatched, and by force of arms acquired for herself such rich lands as Burma, Cyprus, Wei-hai-wei, Hong-kong, Kuwait, Sinai, North Guinea, South Guinea, East Guinea, Solomon Islands, Tonga Islands, Sudan, Uganda, British East Africa, British Somaliland, Zanzibar, Transvaal, Orange Free State, Rhodesia, British Central Africa and Nigeria.

But the Englishman retorts, "The rules have changed since then."

"Yes, changed," angrily replies the Italian, "changed in the peace treaties so advantageously for you that quite aside from these vast conquests before the war you obtained since the war one million square miles of new territory in mandates and one thing and another, while France got 350,000 square miles and Italy a miserable 38,000."

"This makes the British position appear to the Italian so laughably hypocritical that it drives the Italian half mad. Then when the Italian considers that Britain and the League let Japan get away with annexing Manchuria, merely because Japan was too strong and too remote, the Italian goes quite mad.

"So your law," he exclaims, "is one for the strong and another for the weak. Well, we will show you we belong to the strong."

Italy counts on her air force, her submarines and her fast little surface torpedo speed-boats to dent the British Navy, to terrorize Egypt, to threaten the Sudan and Kenya. Few Americans accustomed to regard Italy as a second-rate power, have realized how seriously the British have taken this threat.

In Egypt just a little while ago, British military men told me, "We could not have held Egypt against the Italians last October." The Italians had massed greatly superior numbers of troops in Libya. Today the British have a comparable number in Egypt and have fortified the Libyan frontier with a chain of machine-gun fortresses and barbed wire until it looks like a sector of the western front in the great war.

Intelligent Italians however know that fundamentally the Italian military position against Britain is hopeless. Give the Italian air force, submarines and torpedoes the greatest conceivable successes against the British Navy and the British would still have enough ships to close the Suez canal, bottle up the Italian navy and blockade Italy. Then it would merely be a matter of waiting for the inevitable collapse.

PLANNED LOAFING

creasing the national debt BY TEN THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS, which is SOMETHING, after all.

Under-Commissar of Agriculture Tugwell should get a big cut of the taxpayers' earned incomes for "BUILDING" TOWNS that are NEVER BUILT.

And certainly Secretary Hull should receive a good-sized bonus for applying his free-trade theories so successfully that our trade balance will soon be communing with Davy Jones.

Speaking for the creators and producers Mr. Chester said:

"IN OUR SCHEME OF LIFE, THE MEN WHO PUT THEIR THOUGHT, INITIATIVE, INVENTIVENESS AND ENERGY INTO THEIR ENTERPRISES DID SO BECAUSE THERE WAS A REWARD IN VIEW."

But under the mortar-board dynasty all that has been changed in America.

The men who put their thought, initiative, inventiveness and energy into their work are tax-milked, tax-bilked and tax-mulcted by men who have never done anything in their lives but study Karl Marx in sheltered college nooks or held political jobs where they could skin taxpayers of their incomes.

But does Britain want Italy to collapse?

Britain's reasons for wishing to stop Italy's conquest of Abyssinia are three. First to help the under-dog. This is a sentimental consideration strong in the British public but absent in the Foreign Office.

Second, to keep Italy from obtaining a position on the Red Sea which might threaten the empire route to India, and to check any latent Italian ambitions to possess Egypt and the Sudan. Italy would have to feel strong enough to dare an aggressive war with Britain in order to gain Egypt and the Sudan, but her spectacular success in Abyssinia coupled with her reported plans for a huge Black Army make Britain uncertain whether any limit can be proposed to Italian ambition.

Third, Britain wishes to stop Italy by League machinery in order to give Germany a lesson. This is by far the most important reason for British support of sanctions. Anthony Eden, passionately sincere League advocate, knows as well as any German emigre that Italy is no danger to the peace of Europe but Germany may well be. He wishes to show Germany what will happen to her if she dares treat any of her European neighbors as Italy is treating Abyssinia.

Just now, Britain, smarting under Italy's repeated blows to her prestige, would be pleased to see Mussolini collapse. But France will never willingly permit it, because France needs Italy as well as the League to help her against Germany. Britain will not fight Italy without France's help. Logically therefore, the Italo-British conflict will not come to war. Events do not always obey logic.

Germany has absorbed the lesson, but not the way Eden meant. Germany has seen the League sanctions fail against Italy. She has seen Mussolini defy the League and go on to victory in Abyssinia. She has seen Britain force Italy out of the Stresa line-up of powers against Germany. She has seen the triumph of national force over international chicken-heartedness.

How will Germany act upon this lesson? This is the question paramount this coming summer.

"high gear." "Especially," she said, "have the public health workers come to realize that we are entering an era of interest in the whole child, instead of just a portion of child welfare work. It is important in the present day that we not only say that it is necessary to get plenty of fresh air and sunlight, but to also make an effort to develop a social and mental program as well for the child."

As a neurologist, Dr. Harvard R. Hicks, Doylestown, a member of the Bucks County Medical Society, said that it was his opinion that "we are more or less in a state of flux" in dealing with mental and public health problems. He spoke in a general way and gave a very interesting talk on the trend of modern methods in dealing with mental and physical health problems.

Dr. Hicks said that institutional psychiatrists declare that applicants for admission to institutions for mental diseases are on the increase. He said also there is some questioning whether sterilization will be of any great help in lessening mental deficiency.

From the industrial standpoint, Dr. Hicks said, the problem is a big one. He spoke of the man or woman who works in a factory doing one simple operation in the manufacture of a big product, and how that person, discharged or laid off because of conditions, becomes a problem.

Miss Edith M. Everett, Philadelphia, director of the White Williams Foundation, spoke on mental health in relation to physical health among children. She gave an interesting discussion of fear and fears in children.

Toronto, Canada, May 5—Harry O'Donnell, 25 year old sex murderer, planned to his death from the scaffold here today. The trap was sprung at 3 a. m. and he was pronounced dead 17 minutes later.

The gas station attendant, who was married and a father, gave his life for the brutal murder of Ruth Taylor, a pretty 21 year old stenographer, in a dark ravine in the suburbs one night last November.

Miss Thelma M. Wallace, Maple Beach, has completed a three-year course at the Philadelphia School of Design for Women. The annual exhibition of the day and evening classes was held at the school, Saturday evening.

A fashion show of coats and gowns was presented by members of these classes. Miss Wallace designed, made and modeled her gown and out of a class of 35 students in the evening school, was one of six chosen for her outstanding work. Mrs. Edward Wallace and Miss Hilda M. Pope attended the exhibition.

Primary Vote Result Worries Democrats

Not only did the Democrats, working as never before, fail to come within a quarter-million votes of their goal in the State, but they were greatly outnumbered by the Republicans, who, despite the fact there was no serious Statewide contest, showed marked interest in the primaries.

Greatly encouraged by the primary results, Republican leaders are already preparing for a vigorous State campaign. Immediately following the biennial meeting of the Republican State Committee in Philadelphia on May 16th, E. Arthur Sweeney, nominated for Auditor General, and Frank L. Pinola, nominated for State Treasurer, will begin to tour the State and there will be no let-up until November.

Sweeney is an outstanding Greensburg newspaper publisher, active in Y. M. C. A. and civic work, whose family has lived west of the Alleghenies since Revolutionary times. Pinola is a former State Commander of the American Legion, prominent in Americanization work and head of a highly successful bank in Luzerne county, where he has lived all his life.

Bristol Enters National Safety Contest For '36 and certain states and which are recommended by the National Safety Council.

The contest efforts will center on holding the motor vehicle death rate down to a minimum and reducing it from the average of the past three years, these items—the year's death rate and the reduction over previous records—count 50 out of the total 100 points in the grading schedule.

To accomplish this reduction, borough officials will strive to increase the quality of traffic engineering and to place law enforcement on a higher plane. A maximum of 25 points may be won by the city if these activities are thoroughly successful. Accident reports are to be submitted each month to the contest committee.

The educational features of the drive will also be stressed. Chief among the activities planned are the promotion of child safety education and school patrols, and a year-long campaign of public education stressing the moral and civic responsibilities of motorists and pedestrians. Direct appeals will be made for stricter observance of the traffic laws to insure safer driving and walking.

A plea for the co-operation of every Bristol citizen in helping the borough win the contest was voiced by Chief Jones.

"We cannot possibly make a showing through the efforts of a few men alone," he said. "We will make every effort to hold up our end and I know we can count on all local organizations as well as citizens, to do their part."

"The reduction of traffic accidents, however, is the duty and responsibility of every man, woman and child in Bristol. One thoughtless or careless act on the part of a driver or a pedestrian may ruin an otherwise perfect record; a vast majority of our citizens are careful and law abiding, but a few drive in such a way that they are likely to cause an accident at any time. These few will jeopardize our chances of winning this great contest, unless, as I hope, they change their driving habits as a matter of civic duty."

TWENTY BATTLERS TO MEET IN CROYDON ARENA

CROYDON, May 5—In the banner show of the year Matchmaker Mickey Gordon, of the Arena, has gathered together 20 of the greatest battlers in the amateur ranks, boys who hold championship titles in their respective class, to give the fans of this locality the greatest show ever to be had in one night.

The matchmaker has spared no expense to get these lads together so as to give the sport fans the best that can be had for their money. Every title-holder appearing on this card has proven to the satisfaction of the boxing fan that he is the standard fighter in his class, and will give all he is worth to please the most skeptical. The matchmaker doubts if ever there will be shown an array of such fistic talent again on one card such as this and he was fortunate to sign them up for the fans of this locality.

Herbert Smith, featherweight champion of the Middle Atlantic District, will meet Jimmy Tygh, 118-pound champion, in the star bout. Smith, who has proved the outstanding boy in his class, in the past year topped himself with glory when he won the title in the last tournament, having to defeat some of the best simon-pures ever to compete for the diadem. Tygh, a great showman, is popularly known to the fans, just won the inter-city title when he defeated the champion of the metropolitan district at Johnson City two weeks ago. Tygh is stepping out of his class in meeting Smith but he has no fears for him, for he delights beating the champions, and claims that Smith is no exception.

Adolph Ritacco, the Mason A. C. 112-pound Passon champion, will meet the Delaware county champion in that class, Sid Lincoln. The Sun Village scrapper who hails from Chester, has met and defeated all the little men in that locality, and is now seeing the Middle Atlantic district title. Ritacco, the Philadelphia champ, is the first obstacle he will have to hurdle, to prove his class, and a very tough assignment, for many of the local fans have witnessed the last Passon Tournament held at the Mason Club recently where he won the title and proclaimed him as one who will go far in the art of self-defense and some day a real champion in the "pro" ranks.

George Kinslow, Nativty C. C. Inter-city champion, is again matched to fight Chester Castor, Bristol. Castor, who made a poor showing last week, claims that he had an off night, the last time out, and he will vindicate himself, he claims, to the satisfaction of the fans. Chester, who trained for the style of fighting that Kinslow is apt to show, went all amiss when he stacked up against a clever boy in Al Hall, and could not do himself justice. However, Kinslow is just the type of fighter who likes to slug and with Castor's best fighting done at close quarters, a different story will be told at the finish of this battle.

Joe Sankey, the middleweight champion, who was to have fought Jack Carter in one of these bouts, has been reported that he has hurt his hand while training and has asked a postponement of his match until next week. However, Walter Morklock, Sun Village champion, has been secured in his place. The fans will like Morklock's style of fighting, and the Southern champion will prove a real crowd pleaser.

Happy Riddle, another 126-pound champion of Delaware county, will meet Squire Williams of Wharton Centre. Riddle has won his title in the Southern tournament of the Atlantic District, and is out to prove that he is the outstanding fighter in M. A. D. Sport fans who have witnessed his performance in the South, claim him to be a comer and will surprise the local fans with his dynamite punching.

James "Snuzzle" Generale, the Dag-ferd buzz-saw, is matched to meet Fred Aspero, Neighborhood sensation, in another bout. Cublins was listed to battle Aspero on this card but he has an assignment with another lad in New York City on the same night, and has asked for the postponement.

Al Pierce, Wharton Centre, who put up a great battle with Johnny Morgan at this club last week, will meet Harry Devlin, Daggett, while Joe Meyers, Croydon's fast-rising youngster, will go against Jack Gibson, Mason A. C. slugger.

Willie Stack, another Sun Villager from Chester, Pa., will mingle with Joe Ferraro, Neighborhood Club, while the curtain riser will show Lew Neary, Ken A. C. battler, with Lew Talarico, Mason A. C.

Johnny Straffe, trainer and instructor, has reported that he has secured a gymnasium in Bristol, and it will be in shape to handle the large stable of new boys that he has, the latter part of the week.

BENSALEM LOSES TILT TO NEWTOWN, 3 TO 2

The Bensalem nine lost to the strong Newtown nine, 3-2, on Newtown's field on May 1st. Both pitchers allowed five hits, and only one walk was issued and that by Cahill of Bensalem. Sloppy fielding by Bensalem enabled the Newtown nine to pull through with a victory.

Newtown started the scoring in the third when D. Nolan and Wiggins singled, and an error by Torpey, after Cahill had retired the next two batters, Bensalem tied it up in the fourth on successive singles by Torpey, Adams and Tomlinson. Newtown again forged into the lead in the fifth after one was out when Dutton singled, Morris singled, and an error by McMahon. The Bensalem nine again tied it up in the sixth when Oppman singled and Adams singled him across after Torpey had advanced him on an infield out. After two were out in the seventh the Newtown nine pushed across their third run. Dutton was safe on Torpey's fourth error, Morris walked, and Sherman doubled, scoring Dutton.

FINAL INDOOR BOUTS BEING ARRANGED FOR

Preparations are now being made by the St. Ann's Athletic Association for the final indoor boxing show of the season which will take place in the Italian Mutual Aid arena, Monday night. The outdoor season will open May 25.

Matchmaker Patsey Moffo has already started to work on his card for the forthcoming bouts. According to Moffo, the final indoor card will be far better than any indoor show ever held in this vicinity. He intends to have at least seven local boys on his card.

Trainer Angelo Casiani, who is in charge of the local mittmen, is making his report daily to Moffo on the condition of the local boys. Under his wing is Tony Puccio, Hokey Leighton, Sammy Bacciochi, Johnny Raccagno, Tony Maglione, Jimmy Gallione, Vince Della, Harry Davis, Al Horn, Lenny Dever, Tally Sciarra, Phil Quici, and Sammy Surman. Phenomenal Partnerships

By BURNLEY

In nearly every sport there have been famous partnerships, notable "doublets" combinations that gained fame together and proved that for them, at any rate, two heads were better than one.

Of course, a game such as tennis affords a real opportunity for doubles teams to crash the spotlight, and in recent years such famous duos as the Allison-Van Ryn and Lott-Stoelen tandems swept all opposition before them. Allison and Van Ryn became such a smoothly working doubles team that they reached the tennis heights as a duo long before Allison finally came into his own as a singles performer. Van Ryn never attained in singles the efficiency he possessed as a doubles player, and the same is true of George Lott, called the best doubles player of modern times.

Golf, too, has its noted twosomes, and, at present the top-ranking pair is Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard, who hold undisputed sway as a result of their second successive triumph in the annual four-ball championships at Miami. Revolta and Picard are two grand golfers in their own right, but as a twosome they are absolutely terrific.

Six-day bike racing feature teams of pairs exclusively, and the most sensational bicycle partnership of the moment is the startling German team of Gustav Kilian and Hans Voepel. This pair of pedalers from Hitlerland, winners of six straight six-day grinds, are riding the other bike teams into the boards.

Baseball's most famous combination in recent years were the batteries of Grove and Cochrane, and Dean and Delancey. Boston's present brother battery, Wes and Rick Ferrell, is just about today's.

youngster, while Surman, a colored youth, is a 165-pounder from New Hope.

According to Casiani, the St. Ann's fighters are training harder and have more spirit than ever before and the St. Ann's trainer feels confident that the next show will see a great difference in the condition of those fighters who wear the Purple and Gold tights.

Tickets for the show are now on sale and can be secured by communicating with Charles P. Alta at the St. Ann's club house. Mr. Alta also reports that over two hundred persons have already reserved seats for the opening outdoor show and predicts that the first show to be held in the St. Ann's arena will be a complete sell-out.

Orders are now being taken from persons who wish to reserve the same seat throughout the entire outdoor season. Alta is also in charge of this department.

BAUROTH'S SINGLE WINS FOR BRISTOL HIGH NINE

By Jack Orr

Harry Bauroth's loop single to center with Johnnie Dick on second in the sixth frame gave Bristol High a 2-1 decision over Newtown's Blue and White on the Edgely diamond yesterday. The victory keeps the Bunnies in the Lower Bucks County League race trailing Langhorne by one full game.

With the score tied away at 1-all Bauroth drove his bingle to the outfield and Dick scampered across with the winning run.

Billy Gallagher once again toed the rubber for the Cardinal and Gray and pitched three hit ball. Newtown's lone run came in the first frame and incidentally was an unearned tally. After that unfortunate run the red headed twirler tossed a fine game, striking out six while passing but two.

The Bunnies' opposing tosser, Al Hoffmeister, also pitched great baseball yielding but five base blows. It was unfortunate that he was matched against a master yesterday. Hoff fanned five and walked one.

The localities five hits were garnered by a pair of men. Johnnie Dick and Harry Bauroth were the clubbers for the day. Dick was credited with a pair of singles in three trips to the plate while Bauroth slashed three for three as well as stealing a pair of bases.

John Morris was the leading hitter for the visitors. The second sacker smashed a pair of singles and also pilfered two bags.

The Bunnies meet their big chance to advance in the circuit when they combat Langhorne's smooth club at Langhorne on Thursday. At present the Beck coached aggregation are on the top rung of the loop.

MOTOR STAMINA WILL AID THE VICTOR

LANGHORNE, May 5—Motor stamina and physical endurance of the driver will account for the victory of the man who takes first money in the Langhorne Speedway automobile race on Sunday, May 17, Chet Gardner, Long Beach, Cal., veteran pilot, automotive engineer and national title contender told interviewers here just before he departed for Indianapolis to prepare a machine for the May 30, five hundred mile race.

Gardner, considered one of the shrewdest pilots in the United States and best all around driver on all types tracks as proved by contest board records, will return to Langhorne to compete on May 17. He will drive the Miller machine which he designed, built, keeps in repair himself, and in which he won the Southern championship for two years and on April 26 won second money in the Eastern States inaugural at Reading.

"Langhorne is a perfect circular track of one mile and the man at the wheel drives every inch of the way at a steady speed of around 100 miles an hour," said Gardner. "There are no long stretches where the driver can sit back and rest his arms, no sharp turns to fight and skid through and no points where a driver can ease up on his motor."

"Any driver who hasn't kept himself in good physical condition has no business entering the Langhorne race on May 17," Gardner told AAA officials. "Perhaps he can stand the grind for 10 miles or so but he won't be able to go 50 and have full control of his car."

Gardner, who trains like a fighter before every race, and is in excellent condition for the big title battles this month, contends that his racing car is in better condition than he is and that it can run at top speed for a thousand miles without injury.

Checking over the Langhorne entry list Gardner pointed out that not one man in the great list of stars signed up isn't in training now, proving that they are taking their profession much more seriously than they did in years past when cars were slower and the strain of driving near as great.

"A man who doesn't train religiously now doesn't have any business at the wheel of a racing car," Gardner contended.

Bragg Does His Share, But Club Loses Game

youth in there who was tossing them out in fast rapidity. He was Jake Praul. For six innings, Praul kept the colored boys away from the plate and in blanking them allowed but five hits. He struck out eleven. He had runners on base in nearly every inning but always pulled through unscathed.

The winners pushed over their winning tallies in the last half of the fifth with two gone. After Minster and Adams had gone out via the strike-out route, Benny Praul rolled to Darrah who made a wild toss to first, allowing the runner to go to second. Leo Hibbs cracked one back to Bragg who stopped the ball and deflected it to Ross. Ross in his attempt to hurry the throw tossed wild, allowing Praul to score and Hibbs go to second. Purcell lined a clean hit to center and Hibbs crossed. T. Praul grounded out.

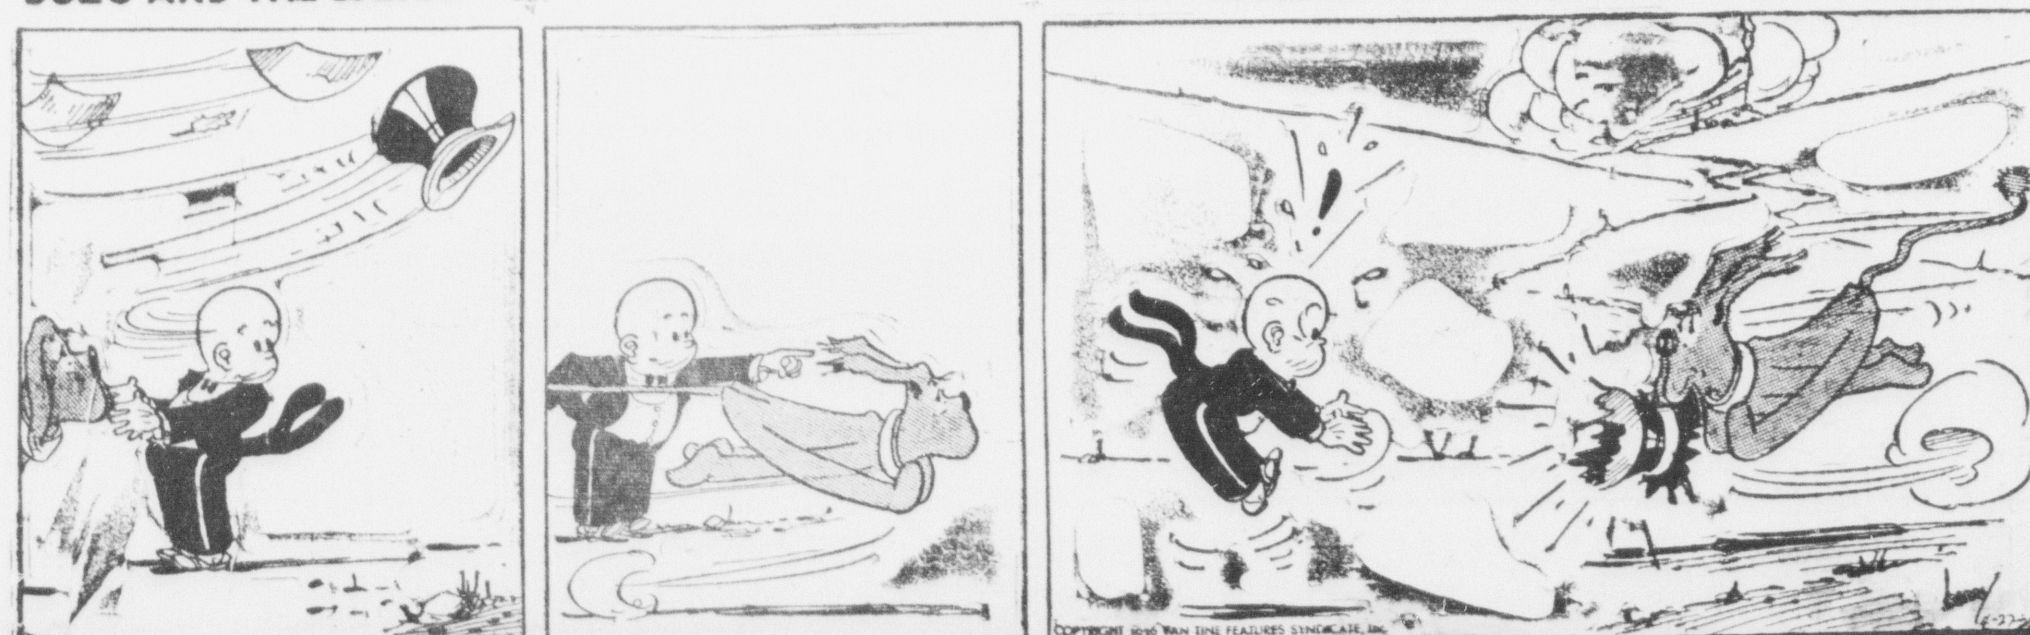

The Excelsior team threw a scare into the ultimate winners in the sixth. Earl Spencer was called out on strikes. Bragg connected for his third straight hit a single past the shortstop. A. Spencer rolled to Hibbs who fumbled, all hands being safe. Adams tossed out Long, the runners advancing. Nunn ended the game by whiffing.
